

Come celebrate the launch of Asian Cinevision's 24th Asian American International Film Festival, hosted by Bamboo Girl's Margarita Alcantara-Tan, and featuring musical performances by P.I.C and Black Sonny.

Join filmmakers, actors and delinquents alike as P.I.C's trademark HIPHOPUNKFUNKMAMBOSKA sound will provide a bootified soundtrack akin to a whole other kind of movie experience. This year, the largest Asian film festival on the East Coast will boast over 70 films from over 10 countries, including a tribute to filmmaker Wayne Wang's landmark independent feature film, "Chan is Missing".

Other screenings include Abraham Lim's Roads and Bridges, Amy Chen's Chinatown Files, and Rod Pulido's Sundance Film Festival entry, The Flipside. Start off the festival on the good foot, and be inundated with the multimedia overload that is fast becoming representative of New York's independent Asian-American film and music scene.
