P.I.C came to life in 1992 in a NYU film school mockumentary about a rap crew with ridiculous and often demented opinions on music and race. Well-versed in funk, punk, Latin rhythms, ska, and hip-hop, and armed with a quick wit and some lo-fi karaoke microphones, the P.I. Crew brought their absurd views to the stage and managed to convince audiences that the band was for real!

Ten years later, P.I.C continues to use its trademark hiphopunkfunkmamboska sound to offend, charm, and confuse audiences in New York as well as around the world: over 300 radio stations nationwide have added P.I.C's wildly successful debut album HIPHOPUNKFUNKMAMBOSKA to their playlists, and the album has hit #1 on CMJ charts from Canada to Hawaii. Most recently, BigIndiemusic.com named HIPHOPUNKFUNKMAMBOSKA their 2001 album of the year.

A mesmerizing, pants-dropping party in concert, and equally engaging and chaotic on their recordings, P.I.C always aims to make you happy.
